

KING'S LIFE HANGS BY A THREAD

Possibility of Recovery of His Majesty Seems Quite Remote This Evening.

Official Bulletins Issued During the Day are Hopeful, However.

ENGLAND'S KING TOLD OF HIS CONDITION

Similarity Between Illness of King and Late President McKinley is Noted—Facts About Prince of Wales, Who Becomes King of England Upon Death of His Father—Latest News From London.

LONDON, June 25—The news about the King from the highest sources this afternoon is altogether pessimistic.

Nitroglycerine is being used to sustain his majesty's vitality. Arrangements are being made for the final announcement.

LONDON, June 25—This afternoon your correspondent learns on the same high authority quoted yesterday and whose reliability is without question that the King's physicians are unable to offer any encouragement. The King's life hangs by a thread and the only chance for his recovery is that a miracle will take place.

The tubes described in the accounts of the operation are not for drainage, your correspondent's authority states, but are to replace a section of the bowel which was removed bodily. Nobody is able to live long with tubes so placed and the only hope is another operation to remove these tubes, draw the bowels together and sew them up. The chances of such an operation being successful are so slight that they are merely unworthy of consideration.

LONDON, June 25—King Edward survived the night much to the relief of the people and this fact has given them a glimmer of hope. The King's physicians at 10 o'clock this morning issued this bulletin from Buckingham palace after an examination of the royal patient and consultation:

"His majesty was very restless and without sleep during the early part of the night but obtained some sleep after 1 a. m. No untoward symptom has presented itself and considering all circumstances, his majesty may be said to be progressing satisfactorily. (Signed.)

LISTER, TREVES, LAKING, SMITH, BARLOW."

After issuing the foregoing bulletin, the doctors again went into consultation.

LONDON, June 25—It was unofficially announced at noon today that King Edward was progressing favorably. He was then awake and suffering no pain.

LONDON, June 25—The story that King Edward may be crowned in bed is without foundation. He is now under the influence of drugs and is barely conscious. It is now thought that the King cannot survive beyond the hour set for his coronation.

LONDON, June 25—King Edward has been informed of the seriousness of his condition and is prepared for the worst.

LONDON, June 25—The official bulletin issued at 2 o'clock this afternoon reads:

"The King has passed a comfortable morning. His condition is so far satisfactory. (Signed.)

"TREVES, LAKING, BARLOW."

LONDON, June 25—The official bulletin given at 5 o'clock this afternoon follows:

"His majesty passed a fairly comfortable day. His general strength is well maintained and there are no symptoms causing special anxiety." (Signed.)

"PYLISTER, TREVES, SMYTHE, LAKING and BARLOW."

The English Royal Family.

King Edward VII., born November 9, 1841, is the eldest son and the second child of the late Queen Victoria and the late Prince Consort, Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. His sister, the Princess Victoria, the late Dowager Empress of Germany, was one year his senior.

King Edward married the Princess Alexandra, the eldest daughter of King Christian IX. of Denmark, March 10, 1863, and to them were born six children, as follows:

1. Albert Victor, the Duke of Clarence, born January 8, 1864, was heir apparent until death, January 14, 1892, when the succession devolved upon
2. George Frederick, Duke of Cornwall and York, born January 3, 1865, who married Victoria Mary, daughter of the Duke of Teck, July 6, 1903. He has since succeeded to his father's title, the Prince of Wales.
3. Princess Louise, born February 20, 1867, and married to the Duke of Fife, July, 1889.
4. Princess Victoria Alexandra, born July 6, 1868.
5. Princess Maud, born November 26, 1869, and married to Prince Karl of Denmark July 22, 1896.
6. Prince Alexander, born in 1871, and who died in infancy.

The children of the present Prince of Wales:

1. Edward Albert, born June 23, 1894.
2. Albert Frederick, born December 14, 1895.
3. Victoria Alexandra, born April 25, 1897.
4. Henry William, born March 31, 1900.

until the last moment the King was determined not to postpone the ceremonies. He told Mr. Lister: "Operation or no operation, I must go to the abbey."

OPERATION

Has at Least Prolonged King Edward's Life—Royal Princes Leave London Today.

LONDON, June 25—The king's doctors believe that his majesty would have been dead before now except for the operation. His condition became so alarming Monday night that it was at one time feared death would ensue before the surgeon's knife could afford relief. Intense swelling of the extremities, accompanied by alarming symptoms of mortification, constituted the emergency which demanded an immediate operation.

To the last the king tried to avoid this. He was willing to be carried to the abbey for the coronation ceremony in order that it should occur as arranged. The influence of Queen Alexandra was enlisted, however, and at an early hour the royal patient was prepared for the operation which, even in the skillful hands of England's best surgeons, was fraught with grave danger.

Shortly after noon yesterday his majesty was moved from his couch to the operating table and the anaesthetic was administered.

Sir Frederick Treves made the incision near the patient's groin and carried it upward, with an outward slant, for nearly four inches. The obstruction was removed and a tubing placed in the affected intestine.

King Edward's first words when he returned to consciousness were to ask for "George," and the Prince of Wales, who was waiting in the next room, was immediately admitted to his father's presence. While the operation was being performed the great central courtyard of Buckingham palace, so lately the scene of such brilliant gatherings, was utterly deserted and an impressive silence reigned throughout the building. The equestrian talked in whispers, servants uptight about and the tension grew almost unbearable.

KING EDWARD'S SUCCESSOR

Is His Son George, Aged 38—Secret Marriage to an Admiral's Niece—Later Married Princess May of Teck, a Daughter of the Royal Blood—His Children.

George, Prince of Wales and next in succession, is the second son of King Edward VII. He succeeded to the title of Duke of York upon the death of his elder brother Albert Victor, which in 1892 plunged England into profound grief. Prince Albert Victor was on the eve of his wedding to Victoria Mary, daughter of the Duke of Teck, when he was stricken with a fatal malady. The younger brother married his fiancée after a suitable period had elapsed.

The Prince of Wales is 38 years old. His training has been altogether naval. In 1883 he became a midshipman on board the Canada, with the North America Squadron. In 1885, after passing the examination with great credit, he was promoted to a Lieutenant. His first command was that of the gunboat Thrush on the West India Station, and while occupying the position he opened the Japan Industrial Exposition in 1890. A year later he was raised to the rank of Commander, but the death of his elder brother brought to an end his services on the sea.

When King Edward ascended the throne last year the young Prince succeeded his Majesty in the title of Duke of Cornwall, and he was created Prince of Wales by his father. Soon thereafter he made his memorable trip to Australia in company with the Princess, and on the return passed through Canada, completing a trip around the world.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are said to be the most democratic members of the royal house of England and accordingly will be great favorites with the English people.

The Prince's wedding to Princess May of Teck was at the command of his grandmother, Queen Victoria, and took place only after a vigorous protest on the part of the young Prince. There was good reason for the Prince was already married. In 1891 he secretly wedded the niece of Vice Admiral Tryon. The couple lived together openly at Malta, and they had two children.

The marriage was contrary to all customs, for there is a law forbidding the marriage of members of the royal family with commoners.

Before he wedded the Princess of Teck the Prince was officially divorced. The young woman was provided with an ample fortune. It is said she has since married an officer of the British Army and is in Canada. The present Princess of Wales has been called "the good angel of the British Court."

She was born May 26, 1867. At the age of 15 she was taken abroad. On returning to England she became an active visitor of the sick and the poor near White Lodge.

Then the word was passed around, "All had gone well."

Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour then went in to congratulate Queen Alexandra and afterward an informal and perhaps historic discussion occurred between the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught and Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour and Lord Salisbury, members of the cabinet.

Before the end of the afternoon over 2,000 callers, who included nearly all the foreign representatives in London and members of the house of lords and the house of commons, had inscribed their names on the visitor's book at Buckingham palace.

Bury, Mr. Balfour and several others on the Prince of Wales and bade him good bye. The majority of them will leave London today for their respective countries.

UNLUCKY NAME

Edward Has Proved an Unfortunate Title for England's Rulers.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

No great good fortune has crowded itself into the career of any of the seven King Edwards of England.

Edward I., the famous "Long shanks" was an able ruler who made wise laws but his determination to subdue Scotland led him into constant warfare, and he wore out the last year of his life fighting sturdy Highlanders. He died in one of his campaigns against that country, and his last request was that his heart be carried in front of his army into Scotland. His son, Edward II., merely ordered his army to retreat and the war went for naught.

Edward II was a profligate and a fiasco as a ruler. He was finally deposed and murdered in prison.

Edward III. was an able Prince, whose war against the French all but made that country a part of England, but his thirst for conquest was quenched and his life saddened by the death of his son—the "Black Prince"—in the French campaign. He realized as an old man that his work would count for naught because his successor would be his own weak, vacillating grandson.

Edward IV. ascended the throne only by the murder of Henry VI., which he instigated, and as a result gathered about him a court that he could not trust. He died when still a young man.

Saddest of all was the fate of Edward V who never ruled at all. He was one of the two Princes imprisoned in the tower and whose fate is really unknown, but who are regarded as having been murdered by the hired assassins of their uncle, the Duke of Gloucester, after Richard III. Their story is one of the saddest in English history.

Edward VI. died when he was still a mere boy.

Edward VII., the present monarch, did not ascend the throne until he was 60 years old, and all England fears he may not live to be officially crowned. The good luck that is attributed by the superstitious to the number "seven" may be his, however.

Brown, the negro educationist, of Wilberforce, followed by about a dozen white women went from one voting place to another, singing "Nearer, My God to Thee" and other hymns. Prayer meeting was held in the churches all day long.

There were three men in the gang and they were seen leaving town on a hand car in the direction of Johnstown.

THOMPSON

NOMINATED BY FUSION STATE CONVENTION.

Bryan's Withdrawal Made the Nomination of Thompson Possible—Two State Conventions Today.

Grand Island, Neb., June 25—The Democratic and Populist state conventions at 2 o'clock this morning were in a deadlock on the question of fusion. Wm. J. Bryan successfully used his influence to prevent his nomination for governor. The Democratic convention by ballot, expressed preference for C. J. Smythe for governor and the Populists declared for M. F. Harrington. The platform adopted by the Democrats reaffirms the Kansas City declaration and arraigns the Republican policy on trusts and the Philippines.

W. J. Bryan was placed in nomination for governor this morning by the Populist state convention. C. J. Smythe, the Democratic nominee for governor before the fusion convention withdrawing his name the Populists sent a conference committee to the Democrats to notify them of Bryan's nomination by acclamation. The Democratic body received Smythe's proposition to withdraw with a chorus of "Noes."

W. H. Thompson was finally nominated for governor this afternoon by the fusion state convention of Democrats and Populists.

Bryan's withdrawal made the nomination of Thompson possible. Bryan charged that Cleveland reorganizers were trying to break up the fusion in Nebraska. Then the Democrats and Populists got together on Thompson. The Populists got the rest of the state ticket.

But Crystals.
If small quantities of butter, lard and beef fat be separately boiled and slowly cooled for, say, twenty-four hours, the resulting crystals will show very marked differences under the microscope. The normal butter crystal is large and globular. It polarizes brilliantly and shows a well marked St. Andrew's cross. That of lard shows a stellar form, while that of beef fat has a foliated appearance. In course of time, as the butter loses its freshness, the globular crystal degenerates, and gradually merges into peculiar rosette-like forms.

LICKING COUNTY GAS

Will Be Burning in Columbus by the Time Snow Flies—Hundred Men Wanted to Work on Pipe Line to Lead From Homer Territory to Capital.

Mr. J. N. McNaughten, formerly of Granville, now representing the Central Ohio Natural Gas and Fuel company, was in the city Wednesday arranging to employ a large force of men to lay a pipe line from the Licking county gas field to Columbus.

In another column may be found an advertisement for 100 men wanted for this work. The company will pay $1.50 a day and several months work will be given.

The Central Ohio company has several thousands of acres of good gas territory leased in McKean and Burlington townships, and some also in the southern part of Knox county. The company has twelve producing wells and four more are now being drilled. By the time snow flies the company expects to have gas from 20 to 25 wells flowing through a ten-inch main to supply the people of Columbus with fuel.

Mr. McNaughten says that while this Licking county field can not compare with the Sugar Grove field in its best days it is nevertheless, one of the best gas fields in the country at the present time. The Sugar Grove field is not what it was a few years ago when it was recognized as the biggest gas field in the world.

Mr. McNaughten says that the wells in the Licking county field average from two to three million feet a day and that the pressure is first-class, indicating long life of the wells.

Nearly all the land in McKean and Burlington townships is under lease by one of the several companies operating in the field and many wells are now being drilled. Land owners are receiving from $1 to $2 per acre with $200 a year for each well where gas is struck. The Central Ohio company sells gas at Columbus—piped from the Sugar Grove territory—at 20 cents per thousand feet.

BOY FELL

And Time of Pitchfork Entered His Side—Dr. McClure's Son Painfully Injured.

Jay, the little son of Dr. S. D. McClure of North Third street, was painfully injured this morning by falling on a pitchfork.

He had been in the mow throwing down some hay for the horse and had thrown the fork to the barn floor before letting himself down from the loft. Just as he had almost reached the floor of the building he slipped, and in falling the tines of the fork struck him in the right side, entering the flesh about an inch. He was taken to the house and the wounds dressed and he is resting easily at this time.

Many imagine that all Paris Green and London Purple is of equal potency. This is not the case. Analysis of samples from various makers shows that some have more than twice the strength of others. NEW BOOKS

RECENTLY ADDED TO NEWARK
LIBRARY

Charge for Membership is Two Dollars a Year—Money is All Used in Buying New Books.

It does not seem to be generally known that Newark has a circulating library to which everyone is welcome. This library was established twenty-five years ago and for twenty years has been located in the Pioneer room at the Court House (on the ground floor, northeast corner) and all who are interested in good reading for themselves or then families should visit this library any Saturday afternoon.

There is absolutely no expense in running this library except a very small sum paid to the janitor who attends to the room, hence all the money received from subscriptions is spent in the purchase of new books. With a larger number of subscribers the number of new books placed on the shelves each year would be correspondingly increased. For the small sum of two dollars per year, one is entitled to two books a week and to persons not members the charge is five cents for the use of a book two weeks. There are a great many people in Newark who do not know how much better and cheaper this is than the library schemes with which we are familiar.

It has been suggested to the managers of the library that it would be well to publish each month in the local papers a list of the new books added during the month and as a beginning the Advocate has procured from the librarian a list of the books which have been added very recently.

This library consists of between three and four thousand volumes. To have access to such a variety of well selected books at such a nominal cost as two dollars a year should be considered by book lovers a privilege not to be neglected.

Here are some of the recent additions to the library.

The uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, sourness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker.

DENNIS A. HAYES

Bottle Blowers' President Elected
Member of American Academy of Political and Social Science.

(Philadelphia Telegraph)

Dennis A. Hayes, President of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association, and Vice-President of the American Federation of Labor, has been elected a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia branch. This institution has for its purpose the discussion of economic questions that affect the stability as well as the prosperity of a republican form of government.

Questions of national import are discussed, and the conventions are of so much importance that its discussions are watched throughout the country, especially at Washington, D. C. During a recent convention, Senator Hanna and Mr. Pfahler took part in discussion on industrial questions.

Mr. Hayes is a valuable acquisition to the membership of the Academy for the reason that he takes a whole hearted interest in the industrial economic questions that even the universities begin to see are an issue in the present stage of progress. This latter fact was emphasized by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University of New York, who was the orator at the Commencement exercises of the University of Pennsylvania.

FURNITURE FACTORY.

Plant is Being Put in Condition for Business—Fifty Different Machines Ordered—All the Latest Appliances—Success of Industry is Assured.

The immense plant of the Newark Furniture Manufacturing Company is rapidly being put into shape for occupancy and Mr. John C. Brennan, the secretary and treasurer, who has full charge of the repair work, says he expects to have everything in shape by the first of August.

The machinery, which is of the latest pattern and consists of 50 different machines, has been ordered and the company has the promise of the manufacturers that every piece will be delivered at the factory by July 1st.

The plant consists of four buildings not counting the new dry kiln and sheds for storage of the rough lumber. The large building located along the B. & O. railroad tracks has been entirely refitted and a new floor laid. This will be the machine room where the furniture will be made and it will contain the 50 new machines which have been ordered.

The building is of frame and 278 feet in length and 50 feet wide. The old foundry, a large brick building that measures 124 feet by 80 feet, is to be the warehouse. It has been thoroughly overhauled, partitions have been put in and new flooring laid. The shipping department will be in a large room on the south side of the warehouse. This will connect with the switch of the Shawnee division of the B. & O. A platform which will extend to the tracks from the building is being built.

The engine and boiler room, a brick structure, is being overhauled and the old engine of Lane Bros. is being replaced by a new one of 125 horse power and a boiler of 150 horse power.

The buildings have all been repainted and present a fine appearance. The office is located in the same building which was formerly occupied by Lane Brothers. This has been almost entirely rebuilt. The walls have been papered and the building painted.

A modern and up to date, dry kiln will be put up just east of the engine room which will occupy a floor space of 22x38 feet.

Sheds for the storage of the lumber to be used in the manufacture of the different kinds of furniture will be built immediately. The company has at present 50,000 feet of oak lumber in readiness and the same amount has been contracted for and will be delivered soon.

There is over 30,000 feet of floor space in the plant, not counting the engine room and stock sheds. Some idea of the work which has been done may be gained when it is seen that something like over 1500 panes of window glass had to be replaced in the machine building alone. This entire affair is being sealed in readiness for cold weather.

In the machine room automatic dust and shaving collectors will be installed which will prevent the collecting of anything that might cause fire.

The plant covers about three and three-quarters acres of ground and it will give employment to at least one hundred men.

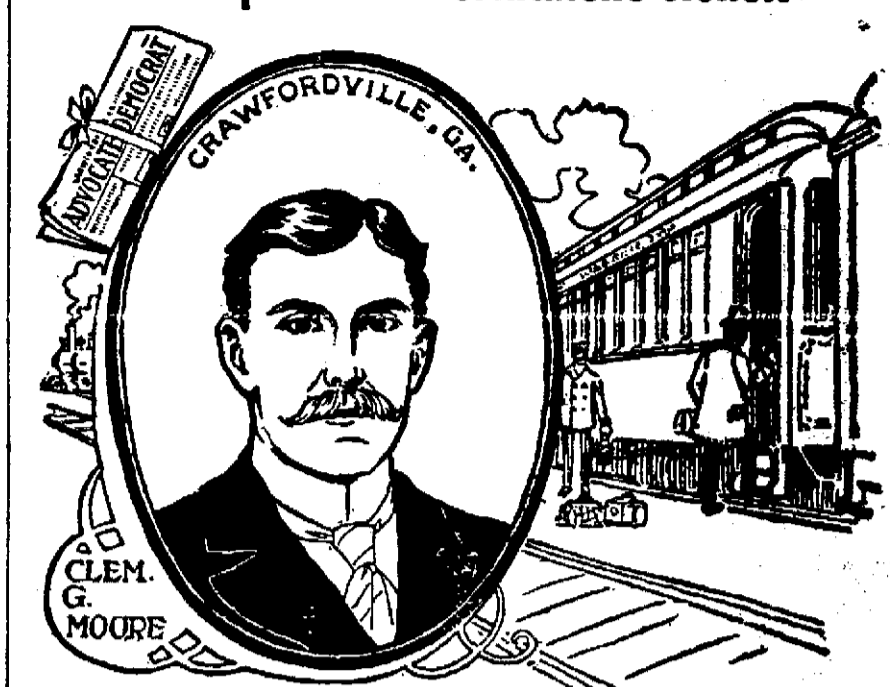

Mr. J. Gleichauf the well known furniture man, who has had many years of experience in this business, will be the superintendent of the factory, while the machine room will be in charge of Mr. Ambrose Schaller. Mr. John C. Brennan, who is secretary and treasurer of the company, is the business manager and will be in charge of the office force.

The directors are Wm. W. Wehrle, George B. Sprague, Carl Norpe, Ambrose Schaller, John C. Brennan, Harry Swisher and J. Gleichauf.

While it is probable that the force employed at this new industry will be comparatively small at first, it is confidently predicted that within a short time fully 200 hands will be employed at the Newark Furniture factory. The men comprising the company are leading business men and manufacturers of the city and they are bound to make a success of the new enterprise.

FOR SYSTEMIC CATARRH

Peculiar to Summer - Pe-ru-na Gives Prompt and Permanent Relief.

Clem G. Moore, Editor of the Advocate-Democrat of Crawfordsville, Ga., writes the Peruna Medicine Company as follows:

Gentlemen:—After four years of intense suffering, caused by systemic catarrh, which I contracted while editing, and traveling for my paper, I have been greatly relieved by the use of Peruna. I gave up work during these years of torture, tried various remedies and many doctors, but all the permanent relief came from the use of Peruna. My trouble was called indigestion, but it was catarrh all through my system, and a few bottles of Peruna made me feel like another person, noting the improvement after I had used the first bottle. Peruna is undoubtedly the best catarrh remedy ever compounded.—CLEM G. MOORE.

Judge Wm. T. Zenor, of Washington, D. C., writes from 213 N. Capital Street, Washington, D. C.:

"I take pleasure in saying that I can cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna as a remedy for catarrhal trouble and a most excellent tonic for general conditions."—Wm. T. Zenor.

Mrs. Amanda Morrill, 136 Reid street, Elizabeth, N. J., writes:

"I have been sick over two years with nervous prostration and general debility, and heart trouble. Have had four doctors; all said that I could not get well. I had not walked a step in nine months, suffering with partial paralysis and palpitation of the heart every other day, and had become so reduced in flesh as to be a mere skeleton weighing only 85 pounds.

"Up to this date I have taken Peruna for seven months. It has saved my life as I can safely testify. I have not felt so well in five years, having walked over one mile without ill result, and have also gained thirty pounds since commencing to take Peruna. In fact, I cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. Amanda Morrill.

Peruna never fails to prevent systemic catarrh or nervous prostration if taken in time. Peruna is the most prompt and permanent cure for all cases of nervous prostration caused by systemic catarrh known to the medical profession.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

CORONATION TOKENS

LOYAL BRITISHERS WEARING AMERICAN MADE SOUVENIRS.

How Yankee Manufacturers Gobbled Up Orders For Flags, Buttons, Spoons and Medals—American Tourists Will Bring Them Back.

[Special Correspondence]
London, June 16.—With the return to America of the thousands of visitors to the coronation ceremonies it is certain that the United States will receive a full quota of the many and varied souvenirs that have been prepared for the occasion. The situation will have a humorous aspect owing to the fact that of the flags, buttons, spoons, medals, etc., that the American visitors will bear home with them a goodly proportion has been manufactured in the very country to which they will be returned as curios. How this state of affairs has come about is an interesting story.

American firms are in a position to turn out beautiful, well finished articles in the souvenir line at a rate that baffles competition by their European rivals. For some time British patriotism hung in the balance with commercial instinct, but when it was discovered by the English dealers that their home manufactures would be totally inadequate to fill the demand all hesitation vanished and American enterprise carried the day.

The city is now gay with bunting made in Philadelphia, badges from Newark, N. J., are being hawked on the streets, medals from Attleboro, Mass., will be presented by the king to his favored guests, and coronation pins have been supplied by the factories of several cities in the United States.

The foreign flagmaking industry found its first great boom in the days preceding the late Queen Victoria's jubilee. Until that time the English flagmakers had had no trouble in supplying the demand, but jubilee season found them totally unprepared to cope with the orders received from every part of the United Kingdom. In the emergency the American makers leaped into the breach, and today their goods are rapidly ousting the products of the home factories.

There are several reasons why this should be the case. The American manufacturers of national emblems have discovered a process whereby the flags can be made much more quickly and with a better finish than the home goods. Though England, with her cheap labor, can turn out bunting at a much lower rate than other countries, the methods employed in the English flag factories are costlier than in the American shops, and as a result the cheapness of the bunting is more than offset. Indeed the flags made on the other side of the water and shipped over here can be sold at a lower price than the home finished articles. Ever since New Year's a factory in Philadelphia has been kept running night and day in order to supply the demand.

The pins and buttons that have been imported from Newark by the thousands sell on the streets at a nominal sum, so that every Englishman can possess one. There are five styles of these buttons, three of which bear the portraits of the king and queen and differ only in the color of the background, gold, royal purple and red being the prevailing hues. Another design shows his majesty crowned. The Newark factory has been turning them out at the rate of 350,000 a day.

The king's own medals from Attleboro are about the size of an American half dollar. On one side are the profile portraits of the king and queen, both crowned, an inscription on the outer edges giving the names of the sovereigns and the dates of the king's birth, accession and coronation. On the reverse side are the royal arms, with the king's various titles. Judging by the number of medals that have been received, the king seems determined to distribute widely these tokens of his favor.

STEEPLE CLIMBING.

It Is a Dark as Well as a Dangerous Business.

Steeple climbing is in truth "dark business," says the Boston Transcript, for it is the custom of experts to make the first ascent and place the rigging at night. Then, when the townspeople wake, they are amazed at finding the steeple conquered. The man who makes a success of steeple climbing must be determined, persistent and ingenious. He must solve many a practical problem in hoisting great bodies aloft. He must know how to fasten a hook over the top of a skyscraper chimney. He must have the nerve to paint a steeple that sways like a pendulum at the slender top. He must be able to tear down, build up, gild, paint, place electric wires and do many another task that would be a problem on the solid earth.

There are many ways of getting up a steeple, and when all others fail the man will be a rope-rigger and then, with a coil on his back, walk round and round it until the entire steeple is covered with rope and he has probably been round it fully 300 times.

But a steeple is not the most difficult height to climb. Straight, tall chimneys are the hardest of all. There a man has to work with might and main to lift himself inch by inch from the ground to the top. Sometimes the top is 300 feet high. When it is reached, a hook is placed over the edge, a pulley is made fast, the swinging chair is hauled up and work begins.

When the chair is near the top, it is easier to work, because the ropes are short; but when they lengthen, as the ground is approached, there is a tendency to swing, and the wind gives impetus.

The man's safety depends upon the hook, and until he has raised himself almost to the top it is impossible for him to see whether or not the hook has been properly adjusted. More than once a steeple climber has seen when within ten feet of the top that corrosion of the iron and the collection of soot have so thickened the wall that the hook is merely balancing on the top, so that the slightest pull in the wrong direction would drag it off. Again, the bricks are often loose at the top, and the hook is likely to tear them away.

One of the natural difficulties to conquer is the swaying of all high steeples and chimneys. In a gale a steeple point will sway a foot and a half. Usually it sways from seven to nine inches. Painting it means reaching for a spot on the right side and finding it on the left, and when making a dive for it on the left to see it sway back to the right. Yet in spite of the constant danger a born steeple climber exults in his work and is at home only when high above the world. He can stand triumphant at any height if he can have two and a half square inches to bear his weight.

An Old Verb.

To laze is an old verb. In Samuel Rowlands' "Martin Markall," 1610, we are told that "lozters" laze in the streets, lurk in alehouses and range in the highways." The word occurs, I believe, in some of Mortimer Collins' lyrics:
But Cupid lazeth 'mongst the fatery lassies,
Whose cleve complexion he oft sweareth passes.

HIS DAUGHTER THE PRIZE.

Kansas Farmer's Wheat Saved by a Rare Scheme.

Farmer James Woolsey has succeeded in having his 500 acre wheatfield cut before the yellow grain grew musty, says a dispatch from Wichita, Kan., to the Chicago Record-Herald. But it cost him his daughter. He gave her as a prize to the young harvester doing the greatest amount of work in a specified time. Willis Rodway, a young mechanic from Illinois, won, and he and Anna Woolsey were married at Pratt a few days ago.

The Woolsey farm is one of the largest in Pratt county, and the scarcity of harvest workers in that section weighed heavily upon the farmer's mind. His wheat grew dead ripe, and there was no one to help him cut it. Then he devised a plan to offer as a bride to the hardest worker his nineteen-year-old daughter. She was as dutiful as good looking. The men came by the score. She was given the privilege of rejecting any of the contestants she personally disliked, and many were thus ruled out.

The contest was spirited. It lasted three days, during which time Rodway, working ten hours a day, cut a hundred acres and wore out three good teams.

ONE COWSKIN.

An Instance of German Military Thrift and Red Tapeism.

An instance of military thrift and of a red tape system which is not peculiar to Germany comes from the Prussian war office. In 1906 the guards were breakfasting hurriedly. They had on the previous day fought the battle of Soor and had accomplished altogether a nine days' march. This was not the era of canned meats, and to each regiment had been allotted a certain number of cattle which had been killed, skinned and cooked, but while the men were still eating scouts came in with the news that the Austrians were near at hand.

The men got into marching order and in a few minutes were in rapid advance toward the enemy. The Grenadier guards, conspicuous always for their dispatch, hurried to such purpose that they failed to secure the skin of a cow which had been made over to them for rations.

When the official who was responsible for the value of the hide came to ask for it, it had to be reported missing. Inquiries were set on foot, evidence was collected, and a voluminous correspondence lasting fourteen or fifteen months failed to account for the skin.

There had been a cow. She had been made over to the guards. She had a hide. The hide was government property, representing a sum fixed by official tariff. The government must be credited with that sum. The hide was not forthcoming. Who should be responsible for its cash value?

It was at last decided that the colonel of the regiment should be held accountable, and a year and a half after the conclusion of the seven weeks' war he was requested by the war office to remit the sum of 3 thalers, the price of one cowskin lost by the Grenadier guards. When the sum was paid, the subject was at last officially dropped.

COSTLY ACCIDENTS.

A Lost Tin Mine and a Lead Mine's Bottomless Pit.

Immense plans which seemed about to be completed, but have been brought to disastrous failure at the last moment, are frequent enough in the history of industry.

London Answers tells the story of a tin mine in England which might have yielded a fortune but for a storm.

With the finding of a new vein of ore running out toward the sea a new level was driven out below the water; then it was found that the lead bent upward too near the sea bottom for mining to be safely carried on. Undiscouraged, the owner borrowed money, built a sea wall to cut off the water, erected pumps and again went to work.

On the sixth day just as an enormous mass of rich ore was being tapped a gale came up, a ship was blown upon the wall, which went to pieces at once, and the sea drove the heavy stones in upon the thin roof of the mine. In a moment the workings were hopelessly flooded, and the owner was a ruined man.

A story equally tragic is told of the Speedwell lead mine in Derbyshire. Believing that a rich vein of ore existed in a nearby hill, the owner risked his entire capital to bore a tunnel 3,000 feet long into the heart of the mountain. Suddenly the miners broke through a wall of rock into a vast hidden cavern, through which flowed a stream of water.

They began to dump rock into the stream, and after 10,000 tons a bridge began to rise out of the darkness, and then their farther progress was stopped. Month after month they toiled, and at last, after 40,000 tons in all had been cast into the cavern, they gave it up.

That narrow rift is known to this day as the Bottomless Pit.

Yawns of Wrath.

The singular habit of signifying anger by yawning is confined to the monkey tribe and is most marked in the baboon family, though the Gibraltar apes also indulge in it. It is probable that the gesture is originally intended to frighten an adversary by a display of teeth, just as a dog does, and that the constant wide opening of the mouth produces an involuntary yawn. In fact, if a human being keeps on opening his mouth in this way a yawn will result. If two strange baboons are put together in the same cage, they immediately confront each other and commence yawning, and if vexed or insulted by visitors they will do the same thing.

It is as easy to escape from death as from a woman when once she's after you.—"Twenty-six and One."

The patron saint of bachelor girls is a saint of expedients. He has to be. He couldn't hold down his job or his halo if he were not.—"The Misdemeanors of Nancy."

While with mathematical accuracy two and two always make four, by adding a certain amount of personality the result will very nearly equal five.—"The College Student."

De meanin' of courage an' common sense must be understood. Many a man have died foin havin' too much bravery, but common sense never killed nobody.—"The Black Cat Club."

THE HUMBLE HAIRPIN.

You Thought You Knew Its Many Uses, but There Are Others.

The comprehensive merits of the hairpin are known to all observant men. Its special value in surgery is asserted by a writer in American Medicine. It seems that a surgeon can do almost anything with it, probe and close wounds, pin bandages, compress blood vessels, use it "to remove foreign bodies from any natural passage" and "as a curette for scraping away soft material." And no doubt the women doctors can do a great deal more with that most gifted and versatile of human implements. Anthropologists have never done justice to the hairpin. It keeps civilization together. In the hands of girls entirely great it is much mightier than the sword or, for that matter, the plow. What is the plow but a development of the forked stick, and what is the forked stick but a modification of the hairpin? If there was any necessity a woman could scratch the ground successfully with a hairpin now. In fact, there is no work or play in which something may not be accomplished by means of it.

Dullards will tell you that women aren't so inventive as men; don't take out so many patents. They don't have to. With the hairpin all that is doable can be done. With a hairpin a woman can pick a lock, pull a cork, peel an apple, draw out a nail, beat an egg, see if a joint of meat is done, do up a baby, sharpen a pencil, dig out a sliver, fasten a door, hang up a plate or picture, open a can, take up a carpet, repair a baby carriage, clean a lamp chimney, put up a curtain, rake a grate fire, cut a pie, make a fork, a fishhook, an awl, a gimlet or a chisel, a paper cutter, a clothespin, regulate a range, tinker a sewing machine, stop a leak in the roof, turn over a flapjack, call a hole in a pair of trousers, stir batter, whip cream, reduce the pressure in the gas meter, keep bills and receipts on file, spread butter, cut patterns, tighten windows, clean a watch, untie a knot, varnish floors, do practical plumbing, reduce the asthma of tobacco pipes, pry shirt studs into buttonholes too small for them, fix a horse's harness, restore damaged mechanical toys, wrestle with refractory beer stoppers, improvise suspenders, shovel bonbons, inspect gas burners, saw cake, jab tramps, produce artificial buttons, hooks and eyes; sew, knit and darn, button gloves and shoes, put up awnings, doctor an automobile. In short, she can do what she wants to. She needs no other instrument.

If a woman went into the Robinson Crusoe line, she could build a hut and make her a coat of the skin of a goat by means of the hairpin. She will revolutionize surgery with it in time. Meanwhile the male surgeons are doing the best they can, but it is not to be believed that they have mastered the full mystery of the hairpin.

WILHELMINA'S HOME LIFE.

Unhappy Relations With Her Husband Denied by Hollander.

The Dutch are greatly tried by the reports which have been circulating throughout the world for the last two years concerning the home life of their queen, says the New York Tribune. A prominent grain importer of Holland who is at present traveling in this country said to a group of American friends the other evening:

"It is libelous nonsense to say that Wilhelmina's marriage has been an unhappy one. If that were true, we Hollanders would be the first to make the accusation, for surely we would not defend the Prussian stranger at the expense of our queen. The marriage itself has never ceased to be a love match.

"I would like to give a little incident of their domestic life which came to me directly from a chamberlain in honor to the royal house. One day the king was searching through the chambers of the palace for Queen Wilhelmina. He came to the room where the premier was patiently waiting for an audience. The room was dark, and the king mistook him for the object of his search and said, 'Finde ich dich hier, mein liebes Thier?' "It is a shame to translate that lyrical and human little phrase 'Mein liebes Thier.' Solomon once spoke of his heart's love as a gazelle, and perhaps that is as near as Anglo-Saxon will come. The incident is typical of the relations of our king and queen to each other."

Scalloped Bananas.

Bananas are good enough in their ordinary simplicity, but some persons there are who like bananas made into a sort of scallop in this way: Cut half a dozen bananas into half inch slices. Cut some bread into small pieces and place a layer of these in the bottom of a pudding dish. Add a layer of bananas, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Repeat these layers until all have been used, having bread as the topmost. Put over the top a tablespoonful of melted butter and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Bake half an hour in a quick oven.
